The European Journal of General Practice is looking for a

Chief editor

The European Journal of General Practice is the official journal of Wonca Europe published by Informa Healthcare.

The European Journal of General Practice is indexed in Medline/PubMed and EMBASE.

The objectives of the journal are:

- To foster scientific research in general practice/family medicine (GP/FM) by the publication of original papers and reports;
- To present background papers, and papers stimulating discussion and debate relevant for the development of GP/FM;
- To facilitate the communication between the members of the ESGP/FM, the international network organisations and the national colleges and societies involved in general practice.

The publication frequency is 4 issues per year. A board of editors and editorial advisors, and a panel of reviewers will assist the Editor-in-Chief.

We are looking for an enthusiastic scholar who will lead the EJGP to further growth and development. The applicant should be a family physician, have strong academic qualifications, writing/editing experience, understanding of scientific publishing standards, and a demonstrated commitment to excellence. A good mastery of the English language is necessary.

The applicant has an open mind for the developments in General Practice/Family Medicine but also an eye for detail.

The position requires a commitment of approximately 4 hours of effort per week. A compensation of €10.000 per year is available including overheads (secretarial, space, and technology).

Interested individuals should review the position description on the Wonca Europe web site at: www.woncaeurope.org

Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae and letter of intent, summarizing background, qualification, motivation, and editorial philosophy.

Documents should be submitted to:

Wonca Europe, attn Barbara Toplek: barbara.toplek@mf.uni-lj.si and Polona Miselj: info@zrdm-idfm.si

Deadline of applications: April 1st, 2009.
