Jena

Department of General Practice and Family Medicine
Friedrich Schiller-University, Medical School
Jena University Hospital
Germany

(Director: Jochen Gensichen)

We are a bridge between medical research and general practice to achieve the best quality in patient care.

For research and teaching we are looking in the coming months for several motivated colleagues. The positions are meant for both recent graduates and for the experienced, full- or part-time, and could be extended after 2 years

Physicians and Scientists

such as psychologists, social scientists, statisticians, epidemiologists

We offer a task to create the future in the following areas: chronic diseases and multi-morbidity, new forms of care delivery in general practice as well as new concepts in medical education and training (www.allgemeinmedizin.uni-jena.de). We cooperate closely with approx. 250 research and teaching practices across the state of Thuringia.

We are searching for:

Physicians, licenced in general practice/family medicine or in advanced training, and researchers with experience in grant writing, publications and knowledge in clinical epidemiology or psychometrics. We are also interested in teaching experience, interest in interdisciplinary work, creativity, open-mindedness, enthusiasm, and ability to work in a team, and German language skills.

We offer to you:

A multi-faceted task in a learning environment and collaboration within a young and dynamic team, a large amount of autonomy, self determination, and flexible working hours (part-time or home office days), completion of postgraduate training in general practice, active support for individual career planning (doctoral thesis, PhD/habilitation, potentially in cooperation with other institutions). We appreciate part-time clinical work and could be performed in cooperating practices.

The salary is based on the public university pay scale. The appointment is regulated by the current university regulations. Jena is a both classical and very young university city in the heart of the German state of Thuringia (www.jena.de). The associated amenities provide especially for families with children a very high quality of life. The university hospital strives to increase the proportion of women. Therefore, women are encouraged to apply. Given equal qualifications, applicants with disabilities will be given preference.
